MEETING HOSTS & VENUES

PRANGINS

Friday, May 17, 2024

MUSÉE NATIONAL SUISSE - CHÂTEAU DE PRANGINS

Avenue Général Guiguer 3, 1197 Prangins

The permanent exhibition Chintz. How a Fabric Conquered the World, interweaves local and global history and considers Switzerland's links to the wider world. It sheds light on the involvement of many Swiss people in key chapters of the modern period, including industrialisation, the triangular trade, colonisation and slavery. The exhibition forms part of the Chintz Centre, which also comprises a study room, a bed of dye plants in the kitchen garden, and a wide range of natural dyeing workshops.

"Noblesse Oblige! Life at a Château in the Eighteenth Century" recreates the day-to-day routine of a noble family in the Vaud region at the end of the Ancien Régime, and the life of a baron. Nine rooms examine issues linked to their function: hospitality, wealth and lighting in the salon, servants in the butler's pantry, and the taste for reading in the library.

Discover the Kitchen Garden at Château de Prangins, the largest of its kind in Switzerland and a permanent open-air exhibition.

Like the museum, the Kitchen Garden traces its roots back to the 18th century - the Age of Enlightenment - when expeditions and travellers bring countless new things and previously unknown plants back from all over the world.

MUSÉE D'ART ET D'HISTOIRE

Esplanade Léopold-Robert 1, 2000 Neuchâtel

The History and Applied Arts section of the MAH comprises the historical, applied arts and numismatics collections: the "hard core" of these holdings was the basis for the Neuchâtel Historical Museum in 1885. It manages a vast number of holdings that reflect the MahN's all-inclusive nature and interdisciplinary approach. Its flagship collections are of both artistic and historical interest, with hand-crafted as well as industrially manufactured items. It includes a collection of indiennes.

LA FABRIQUE D'INDIENNES DU BIED

Allée du Bied 48, 2013 Colombier

Taking advantage of the ban on the manufacturing and sale of cotton cloth decreed in France in 1686, Neuchâtel developed several factories on the banks of lakes and rivers: Boudry, Cortailod, Cressier and Valangin. The Bied factory, founded near Colombier in 1734 by Jean-Jacques Deluze-Chaillet, played an important role in Neuchâtel's indienne industry. It employed more than 150 workers. By the end of the 18th century, it was producing nearly 30,000 painted canvases a year.
